ANNOUNCEMENT

To help the funds of the Orchestra the Women's Musical Club of Toronto have engaged Arthur Hartmann, the eminent Violinist, they bearing the whole cost of the undertaking. Being thus given the opportunity of hearing this world-famous artist with their own Symphony Orchestra, it is thought the friends of the Orchestra would gladly do their part to make the generous endeavour of the Women's Musical Club completely successful. The prices of the tickets for the Twilight Concert, Tuesday, January 20th, therefore have been slightly advanced and will range from 50 cents to $1.00.

Programme

OVERTURE "LEONORA".....Beethoven (1770-1827)

Fidelio, Beethoven's only opera, was first produced in 1805. The plot is the following:

A Spanish nobleman has been imprisoned, unjustly and clandestinely, by a personal enemy. Leonora, his wife, in male disguise, gains access to the jail, by assisting the jailer in his work. The governor of the prison, in fear of an approaching official investigation, decides to secretly despatch her husband. At the fatal moment she intervenes and saves his life, covering the would-be murderer with a pistol. At the same time a trumpet signal (first in the distance, then near) announces the arrival of the Minister of Justice and his troops. The innocent victims of the tyrant are rescued from their long suffering and restored to freedom.

VIOLIN CONCERTO IN D MAJOR op. 61.....Beethoven

ALLEGRO MA NON TROPPO.

LARGHETTO.

RONDO.

GEZA DE KRESZ

This violin concerto was composed in 1806. In its form it closely follows the old mould. Before the soloist first enters, there is a long Tutti which introduces, one by one, all the different subjects, principal and secondary, as well as their links, bridge passages and coda sections. The soloist, afterwards, chiefly adds figurative embellishment, while the symphonic conception prevails. The melodious themes are appealing by their very simplicity, tonic and dominant constituting their exclusive basis. Spaces for Cadenzas are left open in each movement, to be filled in at the soloist's discretion. The Cadenza of the second movement leads, without break, into the final Rondo, more conventional and less inspired in its structure than the noble Allegro or the tender Larghetto.
